

Leadership and Change

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of influencing others to do what you want them to do without having to force them to do it.

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of influencing others to do what you want them to do without having to force them to do it. Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of influencing others to do what you want them to do without having to force them to do it.

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal.

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal.

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal.

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal.

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal. Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal.

Leadership is the art of motivating a group of people to act in order to achieve a common goal.